Usually, winning the lottery implies that one participant gets rewarded, but in Shirley Jackson's short story, winning The Lottery means getting stoned to death by the other participants, that is, by their neighbours, friends and even own family members. My claim is that traditions which have lost their meaning and are followed blindly can cause otherwise normal people to act abnormally without thinking. Thus, the human nature is not inherently violent, but it is the unthinking adherence to their tradition which is the primary cause of their violence and cruelty. After all, groups of people can easily influence human nature as well as their distinction of good and evil provided that the people uncritically follow a tradition which they do not consider as a...

The publication is simple in go through preferable to fully grasp. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
