The position was such as to place every advantage on Hannibal s side. The manner in which the far from perfect Hispanic and Gallic foot was advanced in a wedge in echelon, was first held there and then withdrawn step by step, until it had reached the converse position, is a simple masterpiece of battle tactics. The advance at the proper moment of the African infantry, and its wheel right and left upon the flanks of the disordered and crowded Roman legionaries, is far beyond praise. The whole battle, from the Carthaginian standpoint, is a consummate piece of art, having no superior, few equal, examples in the history of war. - Theodore Dodge, military historian Although the Romans gained the upper hand over Carthage in the wake of the First Punic War, the legendary Carthaginian general Hannibal brought the Romans to their knees for...
